A MASTERFUL SERMON BY THE REV. DR. M'GLAUFLIN

Universalist Evangelist's Address is Feature of Week of Revival Services Here

The revival meetings at the Universalist church are growing in interest and numbers at every service prominent citizens, teachers and representatives of various professions. The sermon Wednesday was by Dr. W. H. McGlauflin, and was on a theme of much interest. His subject was, "To Will and to Do," Phil. 2:14. It it given below in part:

"To Will and to Do"

Text: Phil. 2:14—"To will and to do."

The immediate context is, "Work out your own salvation with fear and trembling, for it is God who worketh in you, both to will and to do of His good pleasure." The man who thus speaks to us had a full right thus to speak. By experience he knew what it is "to will." Unusual achievements witnessed that he also knew how "to do." His biography abounds with illustrations of how much can be accomplished, even where all conditions are contrary, and all influences seem inimical to success. Take a single instance—his quest an conquest at Ephesus, the city across the Aegean sea from Philippi. He had found it a center of vast population, manufacturers and wealth. Pride of history was prominent. Homer, the first man of ancient letters, it was said had been born there. Jupiter, highest of the gods, had shown favor by handing down out of the sky a statue of Diana, the goddess. At least they so believed and had a statue as proof. Alexander the Great had offered to furnish the funds with which to build a fitting temple for the sacred statue, provided his own name might be inscribed over the entrance, but the religious fathers refused. And for two hundred and twenty-five long years the people went on making offerings, seven generation waiting and watching the temple rise in splendor of architectural proportions and relations, till at last it was done, its finishings and furnishings complete, an embodiment of the faith and fortunes of the dead and the living, fit dwelling place for a statue out of the sky. So it took its place and had long remained as one of the "seven wonders of the world." Over there could be seen the smoke rising from the factory chimneys of Demetrias, showing where hundreds, maybe thousands, of skilled workers, earned a living marking silver images of the statue and the temple, to sell throughout the world. So wealth rested back upon worship, trade and tradition joined hands around the sacred shrine. Thus came a strong backing for bigotry, for intolerance, and for hostility toward any change. And how strong are these dragon-teeth always, and especially when set in the jaws of sordid superstition, corrupt customs and greed for gold. And yet not strongest.

One day this man who tells us "to will and to do" went to that city, Ephesus. There he began preaching the good tidings and at once conflict commenced between the old faith and the new. What factors were on the side of the Apostle?

Favorable first impressions. "His bodily presence was weak and his speech contemptible" is the way he was spoken of. High family connections? Not as they view it. Hear him: "We are accounted as the filth and the off-scourings of the earch." A widely known and well thought-of faith elsewhere? Of the despised "sect of the Nazorenes" he was the ring leader. The influences of large wealth? His hands were hard with the work of tent-making. Where in all history is there a more striking contrast than a man thus situated, endeavoring to alter the faith and the life of such a metropolis and the civilization which it represented?

A drop of dew saying to the river, "you shall dry up at your source and I will fill your banks and flow through all your chanels. A taper proclaiming to the sun, "you shall darken and pass, my light shall fill the earth and the heavens." Ephesus was stirred to its depths, the mob for two hours shouted: "Great is Diana of the Ephesians." He did not mind it. Persecution followed—it did not deter him. He fought the beasts at Ephesus and prayed for more strength to will and more wisdom to do. Soon they complained that he persuaded much people. Two years he remained as the pastor of a Christian church, there under the shadow of the temple and it grew strong and useful under his ministry. Then he formed other churches, wrote them letters of admonition, of counsel and of cheer, kept the faith and finished his course.

Two thousand years pass. The smoke from Demetrias' furnaces cannot be seen now, the voices of the shouting mobs are still; the temple and the influences it exerted have passed away from the earth. But down the ages St. Paul has been influencing an even increasing number of lives. He speaks from our Bible on every pulpit, in every Christian home. Millions of youths listen to him in Sunday schools. No library is complete without his biography. St. Paul's chapels and churches and cathedrals adorn the earth, testimonies to what he, and others like him, have accomplished in blessing mankind in the face of dire difficulties.

In doing the work for which our lives have been given, many factors come into account; time and place, integrity and judgment, adaption, and so on. Among them all, is any one of more importance than this which has been shown in the above narrative? It is a quality which reaches from the bottom to the top of society; and is recognized and prized everywhere. What is that quality? The ancients looked on it and said "Influence." Your street gamin knows something about it and calls it "pluck" or "grit." With the business man it is "determination" or "staying power;" with the philosopher it is "volition," but they all mean what in its high activity is spelled out in our text with four letters w-i-l-l!—and it is not true that no matter what you lack or what you have or how you are situated to rightly "will" is to walk toward life and its high prerogative?

I.

The cultivation of the power to will and to do is the way to our individual salvation and usefulness. Salvation is another word for mastery, and mastery is attained by the exercise of a strengthening will. Not the mere natural will; not willfulness, which is obstinacy, standing still, on the one hand, or rashness going headlong on the other; not the will which is merely "the degree of circulation of the blood in the arteries," of which Emerson speaks. But the high habit of soul decision, which exercised and nourished by conscience and reason, is cultured and strong to control our thoughts, our feelings and our conduct.

And to work this out and to work it up, is our immediate and momentous concern. Nothing else can be of more importance to us in this world, or out of it, for it means in the best sense our salvation.

Not that one is isolated in this matter of soul mastery. The statement of the text means your life rightly related to God's life. It is God who worketh in you to will and to do. Thus you should see and feel that your own ability and responsibility are vitally associated with the sources are resources of your assistance in the world eternal.

"Our wills are ours we know not how;
"Our wills are ours to make them thine;"

With this consciousness, attitude and assertion first, other high things will come to you in increasing measure, if you but will, more and more of the Christ mind shall be yours, more and more of correct judgment of wise adaption, and all fruits of the spirit.

And so it is that this soul quality of decision helped of God, which leads to mastery of self, fits one for mastery of not-self, in furthering any great work. More, far more than self completeness comes from obeying this text. By it we are also to work out in career what God worketh in as endowment and a persistent force. What then shall hinder you in your Christian endeavor when your "strength is as the strength of ten because your heart is pure" and also when one becomes equal to a thousand, because he is charged as from a battery with power divine his will being the will of the Father who hath sent him forth? With this in mind, is it too much to say, "You Can Do What You Will to Do?"

Down in the animal world, where evolution has had its play, the scientists tell us that in the order of development, the function preceded the organ; that the creature took nourishment before there was a mouth, as is now illustrated by the jelly fish; that there was circulation before there was a heart; motion before there were feet or fins or wings. These organs were developed in response to the function which called persistently for them, created need for them, moved toward them. The function was more than a prophecy; it was a promise that the organ should appear in good time—the heart, the feet, the wings.

Up in the soul of man is this function, this power to decide which we call will—a soul movement toward a desired end, a point of contact with God, a motion which projects or directs forces that work to make that a truth which it is desired shall be true, whether self mastery, winning another to our confidence and love and faith to purity and power, or establishing beneficient organizations among men.

Professor William James goes so far as to say we can "will to believe," the will determining faith as well as faithfulness.

Beware of those theorizers who tell you that what you are and what you shall be and what you can do, are determined by such bugaboos as heredity and environment; that these are masters over us; that to them it is given to say whether anybody shall rise till he is somebody, sink till he is nobody, or just live on about like everybody? They are "the goblins that git ye, ef ye don't watch out." How the story of the Jukes family has been emphasized over and over and applied so as to make one believe he can be no better than his ancestors.

How the strength of the community, the combine, the union, the trend of things about us has been dwelt upon till it has tempted us to say, "the individual is powerless both here and in all worlds. The mass is all, the unit is nothing." Have you never been hindered and felt helpless because of these arguments? Believe them not.

After the last word for heredity and environment has been said, whatever hardships they impose, whatever limitations they may bring, they are but the fulcrum on which God intends that you shall place the lever of your will, your will being God's will, and so lift your character, your career and your comrades into diviner relation.

There is no thing we may not overcome.
Say not thy evil instinct is inherited,
Or that some trait inborn makes thy whole life forlorn,
And calls down punishments that are not merited.
Back of thy parents and grandparents lies
The Great Eternal Will; that too is thine
Inheritance, strong, beautiful, divine,
Sure lever of success for him who tries."

"If any man willeth to do God's will he shall know." "If ye abide in me and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will and it shall be done."

II.

It is the way to our institutional success. What is it that it most needed through the year ahead of us to make it the best in the history of St. Paul's Universalist church? Funds?—the pocketbook of the rich open to our call? Carnegie endowing us with the millions? Fashion?—in all our church aisle the rustle of garments of the four hundred? Favors?—from the speech and attitude of that public which may not have been mindful of us?

Well, if they come, do not turn them away. All assistance can be utilized. But more important than all can come from without is what we ourselves manifest from within; how we, you and you, and all, us this privilege "to will and to do" in co-operation with each other along lines that time has approved. There are enough of us here to make the coming year the greatest thus far in the history of our church—if we will.

De we forget the open way to personal power? In the southland I met those who said the Universalist church has no place and no room there, the thought and feeling is so different, so hostile. In the northland I find them saying, there is no work or room for us, because the general thought and sentiment of other churches is so much like ours.

Well remember that there was a time when there was no room for the Christ—no room for Him in the Inn at Bethlehem. No room for Him in the synagogue at Nazareth after He spoke the truth there; no room for Him in the consideration of the mob at Jerusalem, who called: "Away with him." But because his will was God's will and God's will was his will room for the Christ has been found. And the Universalist today, north, south, east, west, who goes forth with the Christ, will find a place to serve and a people to save. Who has a better faith or a more helpful word than we? We too can win souls for Christ and his church if we will. But in rising to the height of performing a great duty one must first engage in many minor duties. Superior attainments are gained a step at a time. To become a master musician requires constant practice and preparation. So to acquire mastery with men there is needed regular and continued exercise of our divine gift of decision, determination and perseverance, the graces of courage and kindness. Now what is better for this than fidelity to this church whose faith we cherish.

III.

It is a good way to disclose an insistent gratitude. I mean that by such a co-operative spirit of helpfulness as may be thus disclosed in extending the ministeries of our word and work, we show grateful appreciation of what has been done for us by the church whose children we are. This I deem of no slight importance and wish to lay it on all your hearts.

One's country is often spoken of as the fatherland. The symbols by which nations are represented are usually masculine. They stand for the might of armies and of navies; for material riches of gold and silver, of forest and farm, for political liberty and security.

But to the Christian church with its riches of faith, its sacristies of worship, its unmeasured ministeries of love, has been given long since the tender title of mother. Is it not fitting? Think of the analogies: our mothers ministered to us before we were able to appreciate their care, ever trying to arouse the best within us by appeal through the senses to the mind and the heart. Their love sought for us when we went astray, and welcomed us when we returned. Our follies they forgave, our wounded spirits they soothed. They taught us to pray, to trust, to be pure, to be courageous and to be helpful. Paul's apostrophy to love applies to the mother. Surely for her children it can be said she "hopeth all things, endureth all things, believeth all things, suffereth long and is kind." And every one of those characteristics pertains to the Universalist denomination. She too, by various devices appeals to the mind and heart of the little child for whom she has prepared a training school. She too, sought for us when we went astray, welcomed our return, forgave our follies, soothed our wounds, taught us to be pure, courageous and helpful. For us has she not hoped all things good, and believed all things honorable, and too often has she not been called on to "endure all things" for some of us, and even while she suffered long she was kind. All the way from the cradle to the coffin this gentle mother has had a helping hand and a word to soothe, to cheer and to instruct.

How, then, shall any one of us who are children in this fellowship of faith, separate the principles of Universalism from the Universalist church? And what could be justly said of one of us who, being blessed with all the comforts of this faith to which we still cling, should be found, turning away from this fellowship, slighting it in our word and bringing reproach upon it by our actions? Blessed by the treasures of this house, which we carry away with us, and yet in such disloyalty thereto, that the wayfaring man though a fool, cannot fail to observe it. Such action and attitude in secular affairs would be the act of a traitor, and what is so bad in the state cannot be a virtue in relation to the church. It was this that Jesus had in mind when he said: "Render unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's and to God the things that are God's." As you are faithful unto the government by compulsion, be faithful to your church of your own volition. But if anyone blessed by our faith and our church shall be to his obvious duties blind, how shall I wish that your rebuke may come, to the end that you be made to see and hear and heed the voice? Shall it be this malediction, turning by and by into a benediction? That when you look at God's green fields, the grasses and flowers will range themselves before your eyes and spell out the word "ingrate?" And when you listen to the summer winds in the tree branches above your heads, they shall whisper, "fraud, fraud?" And the clouds across the sky shall twist themselves in shape and spell out the awful word which is the title of one who takes from another, giving no value in exchange and yet does not realize his offence? "K-l-e-p-t-o-m-a-n-i-a-c?" So may it be until you, like the prodigal, shall come to yourselves and return to the allegiance which you legitimately owe to this church which fights the battle for your faith and for your life.

The Universalist church has borne for us and the Christian faith which is our priceless inheritance, the burden and the heat of the day; it has had its prophets and apostles, its saints and its martyrs, and its courage and perseverance has been sublime. Its principles bring peace and purity and power and plentitude to every soul who is faithful thereto and it has a mission in the world which cannot be performed by another. Let us now and here highly resolve, God helping us, that we will strive for the fellowship as for the faith, for the denomination as for the doctrines, for the church as for the creed, and this shall be "to will and to do" for God's good pleasure, for the honor of our Saviour, for the benefit of the city of La Crosse in which you live.

RETURNS BOOKS AND PAYS COSTS

In order to settle the suit of replevin brought against her by Oscar Evenson and Tracy Brooks, to recover possession of their school books which she had retained, Miss Rose Keefe Thursday returned the books and paid the costs of the case. The young men claim they entered the night school conducted by Miss Keefe at a tuition fee of $25 with an agreement that they might enter the day school upon payment of $10 each, extra. In September they paid the $10 and entered the day school, whereupon, they claim, Miss Keefe sought to have them pay $15 more each.

NOTABLE BIRTHDAYS

James M. Guffey

James M. Guffey, the democratic national committeeman for Pennsylvania, was born in Westmorland county, that state, January 19, 1839. His prominence as a politician is better known to the public at large than is his prominence as a business man and capitalist. He is probably the largest individual oil producer in the United States, and is extensively engaged in silver and gold mining. He also has large bituminous coal holdings. Among his friends and business associates Mr. Guffey is familiarly known as "Lucky Jim." Beginning life as a poor boy, with only a common school education, he has struck oil, in both senses of the phrase, oftener than any other man in the business, living or dead. The foundation of his fortune was laid in the Pennsylvania oil region in the early '70s. He was one of the first to develop natural gas and appreciate its commercial possibilities. Then he went in for mining and acquired valuable properties from Nova Scotia to California. Of late years he has been prominent in the development of the oil fields in Kansas, Texas and California, and has realized millions of dollars therefrom.

A God-Given Medicine

REV. JOHN C. OREBAUGH.

Rev. John C. Orebaugh, a prominent clergyman and temperance advocate, says that DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY is a God-Given Medicine.

Thousands of temperance advocates and clergymen throughout the country agree with Dr. Orebaugh, and have the courage of their convictions to recommend DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY as the greatest tonic stimulant and body-builder known to science.

"I have suffered from irregular appetite, diarrhoea, then constipation, abnormal temperature, often below normal; at times the memory is dull and I feel stupid. I have tried many treatments with no beneficial results. Pardon me to furthermore say that I have always been opposed to whiskey as a beverage, but have always believed that PURE whiskey used as a medicine was a God-Given one. I NEVER found PURE until I got "DUFFY'S." The best I could get seemed to increase my trouble and would burn in my stomach, but I find nothing disagreeable with DUFFY'S. It has done me a vast good and I trust others may use it through my recommendation."

RHEUMATISM
WORSE FROM YEAR TO YEAR

The cause of Rheumatism is an excess of uric acid in the blood, brought n by indigestion, chronic constipation, weak kidneys and a general slug- ish condition of the entire system. The refuse and waste matter of the ody is not carried out as nature intends, but is left to ferment and sour and enerate uric acid, which is absorbed into the blood. The first evidence of heumatism is usually little wandering pains in the muscles and joints, or tender, sensitive place on the flesh. These are often so slight that nothing s thought of them and they pass away; but with each recurrence the trouble ecomes more severe, and from slight wandering pains and excited nerves, heumatism grows to be a painful and almost constant trouble. The longer he poison remains in the blood the firmer hold the trouble gets on the sys- em. Each day the acid deposit is increasing and the disease grows worse rom year to year. After awhile the joints become coated with a corrosive ubstance which seriously interferes with their working and movements nd sometimes they become permanently stiff and useless. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism by going down into the blood and attacking the disease at its head. It neutralizes the poisons and acids and dissolves the salts and irritating deposits, making the blood stream pure, fresh and healthy. S. S. S is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, and is therefore a safe remedy. When the blood has been purified by S. S. S., the pains and ches pass away, and the cure is permanent. Book on Rheumatism, and medical advice free.

STAGE AMUSEMENTS

Francis Wilson will be seen for the first time here next Tuesday evening in his comedy, "The Mountain Climber," which is said to be one of the most amusing and interesting plays this popular actor has ever had. It gives him splendid opportunities in a role that is well adapted to his droll personality. The story of the play is highly entertaining, and the many complications that ensue create no end of laughter. The characters are all well drawn and are of novel and interesting type. The scenes of the play are laid in a small village in England and the Swiss Alps, and Mr. Frohman has provided an exceedingly picturesque setting for them. In the company will be seen that delightful comedienne May Robson, also Ellen Mortimer, Edna Brune, Joseph Brennen, George Irving and Joseph Allen.

It was Mr. James K. Hackett's good fortune to capture "The Walls of Jericho" shortly after that play began a highly successful run in London. It was presented there by Arthur Bourchier and his wife. Violet Van Brugh and Mr. Hackett saw in the role of Jack Frobisher a character in which he thought he could shine to advantage. He will appear in it for the first time in La Crosse on January 28.

The play is in four acts. The hero is a young Englishman who has become wealthy in Australia, and returning to London has married the daughter of a penniless marquis.

Those who witnessed "The Time, the Place and the Girl" at Powers' last night saw the brightest, cleanest musical comedy which has been in the city this season. While the original company is at the La Salle in Chicago, the play lost nothing by being presented by the company on the stage last night. From Arthur Deagon down to the lively little "broilers" everybody was pleased. Violet McMillen was cordially welcomed back by the home audience, several box parties being given in her honor. She has a happy part as "The Girl" of the show, and made a great hit, responding to an enthusiastic curtain call.

From the moment Arthur Deagon's smile illumined the stage until it was known that he had attained his heart's desire, he was a favorite all the time. —The Grand Rapids Herald.

Ellen Beach Yaw

No doubt the most distinguished Californian that has won fame on the lyric stage is Ellen Beach Yaw, who will appear in concert in this city. She is making her first tour of America, after having achieved immeasurable triumphs in grand opera and concert throughout Europe. Everyone of her interpretations has brought her additional fame, and so popular has she become that when she announced her intention of signing a contract for an American tour, there was no small amount of regrets expressed by those who sought to keep her on the other side of the water. She has, during the past few seasons in Europe, come forward among the greatest lights of the operatic and concert stage.

Notable among the theatrical offerings this season to be presented at the La Crosse theater, is Eva Tanguay in her new laugh-provoking farce entitled "A Good Fellow." In offering Miss Tanguay, Manager Joseph M. Gaites has surrounded his star with a capable company, and a production which is said to be lavish. Press dispatches from other cities are to the effect that the play and Eva Tanguay are well adapted to each other, and that the former suits her peculiarly eccentric style better than anything in which this talented comedienne has before appeared.

"The Millionaire Detective"

Howard Hall, in "The Millionaire Detective," proved to be one of the most enjoyable performances of the season at the Bijou.

A splendid audience showed their unmistakable appreciation in generous applause and curtain calls. Howard Hall, always a favorite with Atlanta audiences, has a part that will win him even more admirers, as it fits him like the proverbial glove.—Atlanta Constitution.

Earlier in the season it was expected that Mr. Willard, now in Washington, would act in New York, before returning to England, and would present the sympathetic, eccentric, winning character of Colonel Newcome, but that expectation will be disappointed. Mr. Willard's present intention is to sail for home, on April 9, aboard the Kaiser Wilhelm to remain in his native land for several years. Mr. Willard made his first appearance on the American stage, November 10, 1890, at Palmer's theater, now Wallack's, acting Cyrus Blenkarn in "The Middleman," a superb performance, in an excellent play. Since then he has made frequent visits to this country, and he has become a familiar figure and an object of effectionate admiration, in many cities, all over the land; for he has presented only plays of a high order, and exerted only an influence to cheer the heart, ennoble the mind and refine the feelings and manners of the community, by the continual exhibition of high ideals and the diffusion of gentleness and grace. Mr. Willard intimates that he may not again revisit the United States. His absence will be deeply regretted. He is an honor to the stage, and his career has been a blessing to the community.—The New York Tribune Jan. 8, 1907.

"The Heir to the Hoorah"

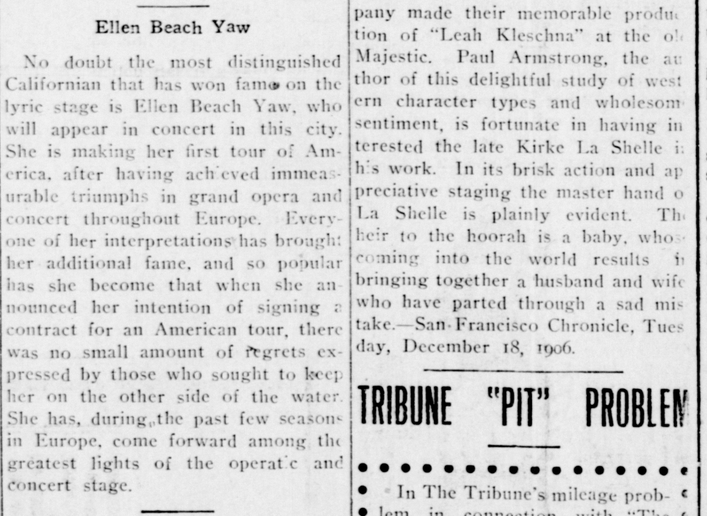

Playgoers should be grateful for "The Heir to the Hoorah," and the cast that the management of the Kirke La Shelle company has provided for the piece, which opened last night for a brief engagement at the Central theater. It is one of the best comedies that has been written by an American playwright in many years, and it was acted last night as no play has been acted on the local stage since Mrs. Fiske and her company made their memorable production of "Leah Kleschna" at the old Majestic. Paul Armstrong, the author of this delightful study of western character types and wholesome sentiment, is fortunate in having interested the late Kirke La Shelle in his work. In its brisk action and appreciative staging the master hand of La Shelle is plainly evident. The heir to the hoorah is a baby, whose coming into the world results in bringing together a husband and wife who have parted through a sad mistake.—San Francisco Chronicle, Tuesday, December 18, 1906.

TRIBUNE "PIT" PROBLEM

In The Tribune's mileage problem in connection with "The Pit," the prize will be a box at the play (six seats) and if there be a single winner a box party could be given by the winner. The map was published last evening, and will be published again Monday evening. The contest closes Tuesday, Jan. 22, at 2 p. m.

THINGS THEATRICAL.

Chicago has a theater exclusively devoted to colored patronage.

Margaret Illington is John Drew's leading woman this year in "His House In Order."

Henry Miller, as Stephen Ghent in "The Great Divide" at the Princess theater in New York, has achieved the greatest success of his career.

Mary Mannering has in "Glorious Betsy" a play which delights and which scores one more marked success for Rida Johnson Young as a dramatist.

The western "College Widow" has completed its second trip to the Pacific coast and after a whirl around the middle west circle will begin a tour of the principal cities of the south.

Blanche Ring has made such a big hit in "The Great Decide," the burlesque of "The Great Divide," at Lew Fields' Herald Square theater, New York, that theater goers need not be surprised if she should yet take to the so called legitimate drama.

Pietro Marino, the first violinist and concert meister of Henry W. Savage's orchestra with Puccini's Japanese grand opera, "Madam Butterfly," is the possessor of a very valuable Guadagnini violin which is 150 years old and for which he paid in Brussels 5,000 francs.

ELECTRIC SPARKS.

Three-fourths of the wire mileage of the country is used by telephones.

Putting up telegraph wires on poles costs $150 a mile. Laying the same wire underground will cost more than ten times that sum—about $1,850 a mile.

Sales of real estate have been made by wireless telegraphy from steamships far out in the Atlantic. It looks as if this marvel of science might soon be used by speculators for stock gambling all the way from shore to shore.

The tantalum wire used in commerce, largely for electric lighting, is drawn through diamond points to an extreme state of fineness. This is perhaps one of the most remarkable characteristics of the metal, more especially when its hardness is considered.

TRAIN AND TRACK.

It is estimated that the wear and tear on American railroads pulverizes 427,000 tons of iron annually.

There are no bell punches or indicators in European street cars. Instead the conductor gives each passenger a little paper receipt for his fare.

That the local passenger business of Manhattan has passed the 2,000,000 a day mark is shown in the recent quarterly report of the state railroad commission. The figures show that an average of 3,520,142 passengers are carried daily in the five boroughs. Of these 2,076,385 are carried daily by the Manhattan lines.

RECENT INVENTIONS.

An invention has just been tested for making paper out of rushes. It is claimed that when treated with a suitable chemical solution and subjected to the special process which is the subject of the invention the plant makes a good white paper that can be used for almost all purposes.

A machine has been devised for enabling provision dealers to cut a certain weight of cheese accurately. The total weight of the cheese and its exact measurement are ascertained; then the apparatus is attached, and the shopkeeper can cut precisely what is wanted by the customer, neither more nor less.

Four hours is the longest interval during which children should go without food in the daytime, and something, if only a drink of milk and a biscuit, should be given them before going to bed.

Medical Expert Visits Our City

It is gratifying to the afflicted to know that they have secured the services of a physician whose skill and reliability can be depended upon and who is altogether worthy of unreserved confidence.

Dr. L. M. Turbin, of Chicago, who comes to La Crosse for one day's professional visit every month, has cured so many of our neighbors and friends who despaired of ever again enjoying health that he has proven his right to the unlimited confidence of all.

His great skill in the treatment of diseases peculiar to women has brought health and happiness to many a maid and matron; his knowledge of the male organism and vast experience in the great hospitals and cities of the world has enabled him to break the shackles of disease-burdened men of all ages, and to the youth of the country he has demonstrated that he is their most skillful medical friend.

Dr. Turbin, during his professional life, has confined his efforts to the study and cure of nervous, chronic, and special diseases of both sexes, embracing all maladies of the genito-urinary, pelvic, respiratory circulatory, and digestive organs and of the nerve-vital and sympathetic nerve centers.

It has been the experience of his patrons and friends that, because of his ready diagnostic skill, it is best to consult him, no matter what the nature of the existing malady. The Doctor puts patients on the right track if their trouble does not come within the range of his specialty, he points out the source from which a cure is sure to be obtained.

As an expert physician, specialist, and eminently reliable man in every sense, Dr. Turbin is always a welcome visitor to La Crosse.

Dr. Turbin will be in La Crosse at the Hotel La Crosse, Monday, January 28th.

NEW NORMAL IS TO COST $200,000

According to completed plans in the possession of State Senator Thomas Morris, a member of the state board of normal regents, the new La Crosse normal school will cost about $200,000, exclusive of the site. Two sets of plans, one with the cost estimated at $187,000 and the other at $208,250 have been received here.

A brick building, two stories in height, built of vitrified brick, is called for in each. The difference is in the fireproofing, one being impervious to fire and the other not.

Senator Morris has no fears that the appropriation bill will not pass. He believes that it will be in effect by April 15, the contract awarded and men at work.

SHOOTS AT BILL COLLECTOR

MORGAN CITY, La., Jan. 19.—Mrs. Benjamin Puckett, government lighthousekeeper at Cypress Island Pass, shot and killed her brother, Fred Sprngler, seriously wounded another brother, Edward, and painfully wounded her mother, Mrs. Joseph Spangler. The tragedies grew out of an attempt by Mrs. Spangler to collect a small debt from her daughter. The latter barricaded herself in the lighthouse and opened fire on the three Spanglers. The woman's husband is held as an accessory to the shooting.

WHAT IS PE-RU-NA?

This question is being asked and answered by a series of short, pithy editorials. These articles are known as the Peruna editorials Nos. one, two, three, four, etc.

The composition of Peruna is freely discussed. The medicinal efficacy of the principal active ingredients of Peruna is set forth, backed up by the highest medical authorities.

Altogether, these editorials are eye-openers. Every person who has been influenced by the recent crusade against patent medicines, in the magazines, ought to read the Peruna editorials. They are published in all the leading newspapers of the United States. They give, by indisputable facts and arguments, the other side of the great question before the American public—Are proprietary medicines worthy or unworthy medicinal products?

FASHION PARAGRAPHS

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—A touch of either gold or silver is to be noticed on nearly all the newest French gowns, while in ribbon rosettes or in large roses or other flowers silver and gold cloth trim any number of the smartest hats. In embroidery, worked direct upon the material or laid on as trimming, or in fine textures as net and chiffon woven in with the mesh itself, and gold or silver is always attractive. Needless to state, all new trimming must be cleverly handled and not used in too great profusion, else they will lose at once the very style for which they aim.

With velvet, which naturally requires both handsome and effective trimming, silver embroidery shows up well. Some models have the waist trimmed with silver embroidery or lace embroidered in silver—with black velvet silver is more attractive than gold—but in the lighter shades gold trimming is frequently the more effective for a vest in a velvet jacket, while satin embroideded in silver or gold is charming.

A reception of black velvet was made empire with a little bolero of silver embroidery, and the same idea was seen in a dinner gown, the bolero had short sleeves which fell over tiny puffs of plaited chiffon.

White and gold is ever an attractive combination, and for that reason gold spangled net remains in fashion year after year, but there are many other ways of obtaining the same effect of gold and white, among these net embroideded directly in gold and trimmed with gold flowers on both skirt and waist. The satin dresses embroidered in gold and trimmed with gold thread lace are extremely handsome, while the white brocades with large gold figures are truly charming.

With pale gray silver trimming is exquisite whether the material is cloth, velvet or satin. A gray cloth street suit may have a touch of silver in the vest and the net may be trimmed with silver ribbon or flowers. Silver fox furs will complete this costume charmingly. For brown cloth or velvet, gold should be used instead of the silver.

For evening, silver and gold slippers ar still fashionable, if they in any way tone with the gown. Gold may be worn with almost any shade, but silver slippers are only pretty with the light shades and especially with white. Satin slippers to match the gown, embroidered in gold or silver to carry out the effect of the trimming on the dress, make an attractive finish to any costume.

The finest white lingerie and cobweb waists have been worn all through the autumn with any style of cloth suit or separate skirt, and by a number of women this style of bodice will not be laid aside through the winter, but will be worn over a thin silk or lawn slip. It is a question whether or not it is economical to wear these white waists so commonly. The principle is, of course, that instead of having to be cleaned the bodice can be laundered each week, and, then, only the finer waists are permissible, and these wear out quickly under constant washing and if worn continually beneath a heavy cloth coat. The silk waists do not seem to soil so readily and are little, if any, more expensive than those of the so-called wash materials.

An exceptionally pretty tea gown can be made in deep cream lace with the same shade of silk and chiffon. The lace and chiffon may be fitted in with the silk, being loose only in the back for the high empire plait. There is a transparent yoke of lace and bordered with a bertha of lace, and this is brought down on each side of the sleeves in long panels which fall quite loose almost to the knees. These four panels should be about eight inches in width. A lace skirt in itself would be sufficiently handsome to require no outside trimming.

The wide figures that are so new this winter make charming tea gowns. The material is just wide enough to allow of an empire model and trimmed with handsome lace this figured chiffon manages to make up a gown that is to all appearances charmingly pretty and simple, but which at the same time shows its worth very clearly. The material is, of course, expensive, but then, far less than when the regular amount if required, and little if any trimming is necessary. In the end the cost will not be found unusually severe. Any number of the newest designs for the spring will be made up in this figured chiffon.

An usual fashion in fur collars is to be found this season. It is a large boa-shaped collar which is separate from the pelerine cape, wrap, or stole with which it is worn. It is attached in the center of the back and again in the front, but is quite movable the rest of the way, around the neck. The wrap is faced with the same fur, except inside the cape, which is lined with satin.

It may not be fashionable to go about in, in rainy weather, but it is, nevertheless, often necessary, and in every outfit there should be one costume that is suitable for clement weather. An old cloth suit is generally relagated to this sort of wear and is often excellent for the purpose, but frequently the only suit that is old enough for the purpose is too elaborate to be appropriate. The simpler the rainy day suit the better, and there must be no plaits or trimmings to be ruined by the dampness. The skirt should be several inches shorter than the regular walking skirt and should be sufficiently full to be becoming, but as just stated, must have no plaits which would require the skirt be pressed out after each outing. A plain tailor made jacket of three-quarter length is the smarter, and the sleeves should be long, for long gloves are quite inappropriate for this style of dress.

SIX CAUGHT IN RAID

WALKER, Minn., Jan. 19.—A dive was raided at Bena by Sheriff Alex B. Riddell on complaint of one Erick Green, who claimed that he had been robbed of a watch, $4 in silver and a certificate of deposit of $75 on Jan. 15. The sheriff arrested Gust Johnson, Bert Smith, Nora Sterling, Ida Lahay, Della Fox and Maggie Prevost and brought them before Justice of the Peace A. A. Oliver, charged with robbery. With the exception of Maggie Prevost they were bound over to the next term of the district court. Most of them succeeded in furnishing bonds.

Gust Johnson and Nora Sterling were also arraigned for running a disreputable house and were bound over to the next term of the district court on that charge. This is the beginning of a wave of reform that is likely to sweep over this section of the state within the next few weeks.

The sale of liquor to the Indians and the drunkenness of squaws and Indian children have called forth a vigorous protest from the Indian agent, the citizens of Walker and the county attorney. The matter is one in which the county has no jurisdiction and it has been taken to the attorney general, and it is hoped that much of the drunkenness and crime among the Indians will be prevented. Indian Agent Frater is back of the movement.

Some people fuss at a boy just to keep in practice.

Latest In Neckwear—Dainty Handkerchiefs—Opera Bag.

Deep turnover collars and cuffs of stiff embroidered linen edged with the narrowest knife plaiting of pale blue, crimson or light green and worn with a little bow of the same color are new and very becoming.

Dainty novelties shown in handkerchiefs are small squares of cambric plaided with a hair line stripe of color and edged with a narrow border of the same color.

There is a new opera bag very useful to the woman who goes to the play in the street cars. It is a small bag of gray or green suede to hold glasses and kerchief. On the outside is a little pocket for car fare or cab tips.

Nets of all kinds, silk mousselines, lace and gauzes in infinite varieties rival tulle in popularity, and a skirt of some crush gauzy silken stuff, combined with a coat or bodice of velvet, represents one of the favorite ideas of autocratic fashion. These net skirts are set into the waistband as full as possible, yard upon yard of the material being used, and they are perfectly

MODISH CONCEITS.

Caracal In Favor—Beware of Too Popular Colors.

Caracal is, fashionably speaking, the fur of the season. This does not mean that it is valued above such high class furs as sable, chinchilla, etc., by the smart woman, but merely that there is always a craze for some fur of comparatively reasonable price and that this winter caracal is the fur.

Very popular shades rarely last more than one season, and it is wise for the woman of moderate means to select what will not be a marked color after another year.

Sleeves are to be rather small, though they are elaborately trimmed.

PRETTY FROCK—5361.

On short coats they are generally of seven-eighths length, but street coats have long sleeves.

For party and evening dresses for girls from ten to fifteen the favorite material is challis, nun's veiling, cashmere or some of the pretty and inexpensive silks which are now considered perfectly good style for young girls' and even children's wear. Indeed, mothers are apt to be embarrassed more by the quantity of fabrics than their lack.

The guimpe effect that is so popular for grownups is also to be found in the frocks of little girls. Here is an exceedingly attractive little dress that includes the yoke and deep cuffs that give the desired suggestion. In the illustration the gown is of red veiling trimmed with red velvet and yoke and cuffs of simple all over lace.

Six major league clubs will train this spring in Texas, five in Georgia, two in Arkansas, and one each in California, Florida and Mexico.

It is said that George Stone and Rhody Wallace will cost the St. Louis Americans an even $10,500 in salaries the coming season. Ball players must be starving to death nowadays.

And along with other things that have made Kansas famous don't overlook "Busy Izzy" Isbell, the heavy swatter of the White Sox.

Officials of the South Atlantic league believe they will have another hot pennant race the coming season. The contest last season was certainly a miniature American league race.

Schubert.

The short life of Franz Schubert probably contained as much artistic labor as any man has ever been able to crowd in the same number of years. He was born in 1797 and died in 1828. His artistic career extended over about twenty years, during which time he produced more than 1,200 songs, to say nothing of symphonies, pianoforte sonatas and concerted music.

Brewing.

There has been no nation, no matter how uncivilized, that at one time or another has not made and used intoxicating liquors. The art of brewing was practiced by the ancient Egyptians and later by the Greeks, Romans and Gauls.

Rough on Abdul Aziz.

When Abdul Aziz, sultan of Turkey, was deposed Queen Victoria telegraphed to his captors in French, "Soignez le bien," or "Take good care of him." The wires said, "Saignez le bien," which means something very different—namely, "Bleed him well," an error of the wires which reads grewsomely in the light of the fate which befell that unhappy monarch.

A most suggestive epitaph is that on the tomb of Alexander the Great, "Sufficit huic tumulus, cui non sufficerat orbis" (This tomb suffices for him for whom the world did not suffice).

A Historic Cypress.

There is a cypress in the vicinity of Padua which is looked upon as having been a contemporary of Julius Caesar, and, according to another and more plausible legend, it was against the trunk of this tree that Francis I, seeing "all lost save honor," endeavored to break his sword.

Rubber Shoes.

To make rubber shoes wear longer from the tops of old rubber shoes cut pieces the shape of a heel. Smear these pieces on the lining side with thick mucilage or any sticky substance and place in the heels of rubbers, pressing down firmly. These protectors prevent the rubber from receiving the direct pressure of the boot heels and can be renewed when they show the least signs of wear.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL

Few People Know How Useful It Is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Costs Nothing to Try.

Nearly everybody knows that ch coal is the safest and most effici disinfectant and purifier in nature, few realize its value when taken i the human system for the sa cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the m you take of it the better; it is no drug at all, but simply absorbs gases and impurities always pres in the stomach and intestines carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath a smoking, drinking or eating oni and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectually clears and proves the complexion, it whitens teeth and further acts as a natural eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases wh collect in the stomach and bowels disinfects the mouth and throat fr the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in form or another, but probably best charcoal and the most for money is in Stuart's Charcoal L enges; they are composed of the est powdered Willow charcoal, other harmless antiseptics in tab form or rather in the form of lar pleasant tasting lozenges, the ch coal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges soon tell in a much improved co tion of the general health, better c plexion, sweeter breath and pu blood, and the beauty of it is, that possible harm can result from th continued use, but, on the contra great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking the benefits of charcoal, says: "I vise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to patients suffering from gas in sto ach and bowels, and to clear the c plexion and purify the breath, mo and throat; I also believe the live greatly benefited by the daily use them; they cost but twenty-five c a box at drug stores, and although some sense a patent preparation, I believe I get more and better ch coal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozen than in any of the ordinary charc tablets."

BEGIN THAW'S TRIAL

(Special Tribune Service.)

FACTS ABOUT THE FAMOUS CASE

Date and Place of Tragedy—The night of June 25, 1906, during the performance of a musical comedy at the Madison Square Roof Garden.

The Slayer—Harry Kendall Thaw, the scapegrace son of the late William Thaw, a Pittsburg millionaire.

The Slain—Stanford White, a famous New York architect and well known as a man about town.

Alleged Cause of Tragedy—White's interest in Thaw's wife, who was Evelyn Nesbit, a chorus girl and artist's model.

Probable Pleas for Defense—Justification and emotional insanity.

Special charges of the prosecution—Murder, premediation and malice.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Thirty weeks to the day in a prison cell and Harry Kendall Thaw is called upon to cross the "Bridge of Sighs" and stand before the bar of justice to stand trial for the murder of Stanford White.

That element of the public which seems to delight in sensational cases of this character, and, if truth be said, it is a very large element, is awaiting the trial with feverish interest. It is hinted that the disclosures of the trial will be of a most sensational kind and that such cases as the "Nan" Patterson trial will be extremely tame in comparison. A great throng will be on hand to attend the trial. It is probable that official passes will be required for admission and more than likely that at certain stages of the proceeding the public will be excluded altogether.

The Thaw-White case contains every element calculated to attract public attention. The prominence of the Thaw family socially, the wealth of his parents, the circumstances surrounding the young man's marriage to Evelyn Nesbit, the "Florodora" girl and artist's model, and the spectacular scene in the midst of which he fired the bullets into the breast of the man who, he asserted, had betrayed his wife, all tend the attract interest to the trial from one end of the country to the other. Even the leading papers of London and Paris, to both which cities the principals to the tragedy were well known, have arranged to "cover" the trial by special representatives.

Who Harry Thaw Is

Harry Thaw, the ever wayward son of rich and indulgent parents, had become widly known throughout the country prior to the killing of Stanford White by reason of the publicity given to many of his escapades. His father, the late William Thaw, was one of Pittsburg's richest men. He had early seen that Harry was not to be intrusted with a large income, lest he give himself over to a life of luxurious idleness and liberty. So when the elder Thaw died he provided that Harry Thaw should have only $2,500 a year. The bulk of the estate went to Mrs. William Thaw, whose indulgent love for her children was soon made apparent in the manner in which she lavished money upon them. One of the daughters was married four or five years ago to the Earl of Yarmouth and it was reported at the time that Mrs. Thaw settled a large sum on the young English nobleman, whose wealth was not at all in keeping with his high title.

Harry Thaw had but to ask whatever sum he choose, and the indulgent mother gave it to him. He abandoned his $2,500 a year income from the estate to his valet. It was said the young man's expenditures often averaged as high as $80,000 or $100,000 a year. It was said in Pittsburg by members of the Thaw family that the mother had spent nearly $1,000,044 in an effort to prevent the young man's marriage to Evelyn Nesbit.

Evelyn Nesbit's Career

Miss Nesbit, or Mrs. Thaw, was born in Pittsburg, but did not know Thaw while she lived there. She came to New York four or five years ago to earn her living. Before she became an actress she was an artist's model. She first appeared in "The Wild Rose," as a show girl, but it was only for a short time. Her connection in a similar capacity in "The Girl From Dixie" was even more brief. She appeared for a time in "Florodora," and it was then that she first met Thaw. At no time did Miss Nesbit occupy a stage position of any prominence.

Miss Nesbit was one of the party, of which Thaw was also a member, that went abroad in the spring of 1904. It was known then that they were often in each other's company. The gossip about them, however, did not become general until dispatches told of Thaw's arrest while speeding an automobile in Switzerland in company with his "wife."

Not long after that a story became current that they had been married abroad, and that Thaw's family was so annoyed by the reports that he could hope for no further advances from his father's estate. The story of the marriage was indignantly denied soon afterward by Thaw and Miss Nesbit when they returned to this country in October, 1904. The pair travelled together and attracted much notoriety from the fact that many hotels refused to receive them unless they would register as "man and wife." When the scandal became unbearable the couple were summoned to Pittsburg by Mrs. William Thaw and the next the public heard about the matter was that they were married in that city. Many different stories of events and threats alleged to have brought about the marriage have been told since the trogedy of last June.

Stanford White Well Known

Stanford White was fifty-three years old and a member of a family that had been socially prominent in New York and New England for several generations. His father was a well known critic, journalist and essayist. Stanford received a splendid education and travelled extensively in Europe. On his return to New York he formed a partnership with Charles F. McKim and William R. Mead under the firm name of McKim, Mead & White. The name of this firm is associated with some of the most notable architecture of the country, many examples of which were designed by Mr. White himself. He was the architect of the Madison Square Garden, the Washington Arch, the New York University, the University of Virginia, and many private residences throughout the country. In 1884 Mr. White was married to the daughter of Judge J. Lawrence Smith of this city, who, with one son, a student at Harvard, survived him.

Jerome to Prosecute

It is generally expected that the trial will be a short one. The case is one of those which almost try themselves, because the facts are so plain and beyond dispute. There is no question that Thaw killed White, and no disputing the fact that the killing was deliberate. It is said that about a dozen witnesses will be called by the prosecution. Their examination will be direct and to the point. Mr. Jerome, who will conduct the prosecution in person, will proceed with the presentation of the case against Thaw as if that young man were some obscure member of the community. The indications are that the direct examination of witnesses for the prosecution will take not more than a single court day. The defense will naturally take more time for cross-examination, and it will be by this that the trial will be lengthened. What the line of defense will be has not been made known by counsel for Thaw, but whatever it may be the district attorney will combat every fact developed that conflicts with the story told to the jury by the prosecution's witnesses.

The Line of Defense.

While it is true that counsel for Thaw have been careful not to reveal their plans, certain actions taken by them and overtures made by them to professional gentlemen indicates what facts they mean to present in court to secure a verdict favorable to their client. It is the general understanding in the district attorney's office that emotional insanity will be the basis of the defense. But if the defense sets up justification and relies on the unwritten law to create a favorable impression for Thaw, there promises to no end of sensational developments.

If, for instance, an attempt is made to show that White annoyed Evelyn Nesbit Thaw or that he did anything that Harry K. Thaw could properly construe as an insult or annoyance to his wife, it is said the prosecution is prepared to combat such efforts in a way that will be decidedly sensational. The district attorney, it is said, is in a position to call a witness who will testify that every allegation Thaw may make against White is but a figment of his imagination and not based on fact. There are witnesses available for the prosecution who are ready and willing to swear that if Harry Thaw conceived any peculiar notions regarding Stanford White after his marriage to Evelyn Nesbit they were insane delusions and entirely without foundation. It has been whispered among the medical experts whose services have been enlisted in one way and another that Thaw imagined all sorts of things of White, and that he, Thaw, had been delegated to act in the capacity of avenging angel.

From the standpoint of the prosecution the killing of White was nothing more than a cold-blooded, deliberate murder, without cause or justification, and confidence is expressed in Mr. Jerome's office that Thaw will promptly be convicted of murder in the first degree.

SHOPLIFTERS SENTENCED IN IND.

Jacob Schmitt, Joseph Schwick and Rose Yettkohn, under arrest at Terre Haute, Ind., on a charge of shop lifting and wanted in La Crosse for robbing the E. R. Barron store of a seal skin sacque, valued at $175, have been sentenced to the Indiana penitentiary. Chief Byrne has received advices of the trio being found guilty, but the telegram does not state the number of years received.

GOT HIS HAIR BACK.

Was Perfectly Bald When He Started to Use Newbro's Herpicide.

Frederick Manuell, Maryland block, Butte, Montana, bought a bottle of Newbro's Herpicide, April 6, '99, and began to use it for entire baldness. The hair follicles in his scalp were not dead and in 20 days he had hair all over his head. On July 2 he writes, "and today my hair is as thick and luxuriant as any one could wish." Newbro's Herpicide works on an old principle and with a new discovery—destroy the cause and you remove the effect. Herpicide destroys the germ that causes dandruff, falling hair, and finally baldness, so that with the cause gone the effect cannot remain. Stops falling hair at once and a new growth starts. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.
Two sizes—50 cents and $1.00.

Straw Matting.

Opinions differ concerning straw mattings on floors. Some housekeepers contend that it gives a house a cool, clean look, and so it may in summer and when it is new, but the musty odor that clings to it always is extremely disagreeable to some people. Added to this, the dirt, which does not show on straw matting and gives it a superficially clean look, all sifts through. The experienced housekeeper knows that it is there, for she is wise in detecting the smell of dust. In fact, after a straw matting has been laid some time it is not hygienic as a floor covering. One housekeeper who moved into a house when the retiring family had generously left two apparently new mattings had them taken up because she preferred the good hardwood floors underneath to be uncovered. At least half a pailful of dirt was taken from each room, which to the casual eye had appeared in neat condition.

The economy of straw mattings is questionable. If you have an old and poor floor that cannot be repaired sufficiently to be stained and varnished or painted and you cannot afford to lay a new floor, then straw matting

Help Those Who Are Helping You

There is nothing that helps a town prosper like buying the goods it manufactures.

There are represented herewith some of our most prosperous and best manufacturers of commodities—goods that are of the highest grade.

La Crosse has made wonderful strides of progress in five years. It is chiefly because the "trade at home motto" has imbbued the people. Our citizens have scoffed at the highly colored and luring advertisements of the mail order grafters which kept La Crosse in the ranks of the villages for decades, and have wisely determined to support home manufacturers—the people who support them.

The Leafless Acacia.

There are forests of leafless trees in some parts of Australia. They respire, so to say, through a little stem, apparently answering the purpose of a leaf. The trees are known as "the leafless acacias."

To Get Fat.

Some individuals are constitutionally thin, but it is an exceptional case that will not respond to proper "get fat" treatment, which consists in moderate exercise, good things to eat and plenty of refreshing sleep. Raw eggs are fattening. Drink plenty of water. Blue pencil the fretting habit. Get out of doors every day and sleep at least eight or nine hours every night.

To the Manner Born.

Shakespeare wrote "native and to the manner born." "To the manor born" is believed to be an American innovation. There is not a single editor of Shakespeare who admits that reading, but there is a wide belief in it, absolutely ungrounded.

Wild Peafowl.

The peacock is found in a wild state in India, Ceylon, Madagascar and many other parts of Asia and Africa.

A Very Old Proverb.

The proverb "Necessity is the mother of invention" can hardly be traced to one independent source. The idea was expressed by Persius, the Roman satirist, about 60 A. D., and is found in the precise form now quoted in Richard Franck's "Northern Memoirs" (printed in London, 1694) and in various later English writers.

Meat Extracts.

A medical expert points out that meat juice and meat extracts have a value quite separate from their actual nutritive constituents, inasmuch as they have a direct stimulating action on the gastric juice.

Cocos Island Treasure.

It is said that there are two great treasure hoards on Cocos island—one a pirate's plunder, estimated at anything between $30,000,000 and $60,000,000; another called "Keating's treasure," said to be worth $15,000,000.

Bird Imitates a Flower.

A remarkable bird found in Mexico is the bee martin, which has a trick of ruffling up the feathers on the top of its head into the exact semblance of a beautiful flower, and when a bee comes along to sip honey from the supposed flower it is snapped up by the bird.

Boo and Bah.

Boo, the exclamation used to frighten children, is a corruption of Bah, the name of a famous Gothic general. It has been used for a terror word for centuries.

Warts.

Seed warts have been removed by first cutting the warts down to the skin with a clean sharp knife and then applying a poultice of lemon juice and fine salt. In the morning the warts will feel sore, but with two or three more applications of the lemon juice and salt will disappear.

Codfish In Norway.

Codfish are sold in Norway by count regardless of size, which varies greatly. Salt is considered the only desirable preservative, but many are air dried and are known as "stock fish."

Weeds.

To give some idea of how weeds multiply it may be stated a single plant of pepper grass will produce 18,000 seeds; dandelion, 12,000; shepherd's purse, 37,000; wheat thief, 7,000; common thistles, 65,000; camomile, 16,000; ragweed, 5,000; purslane, 375,000; plantain, 47,000, and burdock, 43,000.

LOBBISTS DEFY JOE FOLK

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 19.—This city is overrun with lobbyists, legislators say. Apparently every important interest in the state has decided to have a representative at Jefferson City.

Not in many years, say the reformers, have so many scheming politicians gathered in the capitol for the purpose of influencing legislation. The rule limiting the stay of lobbyists to thirty hours evidently has become a dead letter.

The lobbyists laugh at the governor's threats to punish them if they attempt to interfere with the deliberations of the general assembly. They say he cannot pass his anti-lobby bill because many well-meaning members whose legislative records are stainless regard such a law as impracticable.

GIRL BABY'S AWFUL ECZEMA

Sight of Eye Destroyed by Disease—Tried Five Doctors but Grew Worse—In Agony Eight Months—Parents Discouraged, Until They Tried Cuticura Remedies

IN ONE WEEK ALL SORES DISAPPEARED

"Our little girl, one year and a half old, was taken with eczema or that was what the doctor said it was. We called in the family doctor and he gave some tablets and said she would be all right in a few days. The eczema grew worse and we called in doctor No. 2. He said she was teething, as soon as the teeth were through she would be all right. But she still grew worse. Doctor No. 3 said it was eczema. By this time she was nothing but a yellow, greenish sore. Well, he said he could help her, so we let him try it about a week. One morning we discovered a little yellow pimple on one of her eyes. Of course we 'phoned for doctor No. 3. He came over and looked her over and said that he could not do anything more for her, that we had better take her to some eye specialist, since it was an ulcer. So we went to Oswego to doctor No. 4, and he said the eyesight was gone, but that he could help it. We thought we would try doctor No. 5. Well, that proved the same, only he charged $10 more than doctor No. 4. We were nearly discouraged. I saw one of the Cuticura advertisements in the paper and thought we would try the Cuticura Treatment, so I went and purchased a set of Cuticura Remedies, which cost me $1, and in three days our daughter, who had been sick about eight months, showed great improvement, and in one week all sores had disappeared. Of course it could not restore the eyesight, but if we had used Cuticura in time I am confident that it would have saved the eye. We think there is no remedy so good for any skin trouble or impurity of the blood as Cuticura. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Abbott, R. F. D. No. 9, Fulton, Oswego Co., N. Y., August 17, 1906."

It is expected that the case of Harry Thaw, charged with the murder of Stanford White, will be called for trial Monday before Justice Fitzgerald in the criminal branch of the supreme court in New York City. The sensational features of the killing and the prominence of the principals will combine to make the trial one of the most noted of recent years.

"We cheerfully recommend Father John's Medicine as a good remedy for bronchial troubles and as a tonic and body builder for those who are weak and run down. Several persons of our institution have used it with beneficial results." (Signed) Sisters of Holy Cross, 44 Chandler St., Nashua, N. H.

AN OLD SOLDIER'S LETTER

Mr. John H. Senter of Lynn, 84 years old, says: "Father John's Medicine built me up and made me vigorous again. It cured my daughter of grip when four doctors had failed."

SOLD BY O. T. ERHART

The Prince and the Ruby

"GOODBY, my son," said the old woman. "Take this charm to guard you on your journey." And she hung round Florian's neck a locket of gold in quaint device. "This is our one treasure," she told him. "In all our poverty I have never parted with it. It will not open now, but when you have done a deed noble and glorious and have made a great sacrifice the spring will answer your lightest touch."

So Florian set out to seek his fortune, and his heart was light, for he was young and brave and strong. For many days he traveled, and at length he came to a city whose walls were of ivory and whose buildings were beautiful with jasper and carvings.

"Happy the people who live here," he thought. Then as he looked about him he saw a great number of men—old men and young, strong men and weak, gay knights and poor plowboys—streaming in the same direction. He followed with the throng, and as he walked an old man next him told him what caused the crowd. It was a long story, but Florian listened with interest.

"Long ago," said the old man, "a baby prince was born in the palace. He was a rarely beautiful child and the pride of the kingdom. On his christening day he was plighted to the lovely Princess Beatrice, then a baby, daughter of the great King Ferdinand, whose kingdom is toward the rising sun. And on that day the wonderful magic ruby was fastened to the baby prince's dress. It was the supreme treasure of the country, for it had one marvelous quality. He who owned it could see when he looked in it the face of the one who loved him best. But on the night of that day a terrible thing happened. The baby prince was stolen from his cradle. That is all that has ever been known. And now the Princess Beatrice is a wonderfully beautiful woman, and her father says that if the stolen Prince Eustace is not discovered within four days her troth to him is broken. So our good King Maurice summons all to aid in one last search for his lost son, promising an immense fortune to him who can find the youth, identified by the magic ruby. Join with us, young man, and if you find the prince your fortune is made."

Gladly did Florian hurry to the palace with the others, and when he saw the good old king bowed with sadness, who wished them all godspeed on their quest, he longed with all his heart to find the lost Prince Eustace.

Early the next morning he started out and traveled toward the east for many weary miles, questioning, searching on all sides, but no trace of the lost prince could he find. Toward evening he lay down to rest in a cool, shady place beneath an oak tree far from all men. He slept a short while, and when he awoke it seemed as if a gentle spirit of peace had fallen upon him. Looking up, he saw a maiden bending over him. She was more beautiful than anything on earth. Florian loved her in an instant. He forgot all about his quest as he talked with her and listened to her wonderful voice. At last he told her the search he was making, and she sighed.

"I will tell you what will surprise you," said she. "I am Princess Beatrice. Sometimes in the cool evenings I leave the palace and come here by myself. Oh, try, try, good youth, to find the prince for me."

Then Florian felt sad, for he loved Beatrice and was loath to find the prince who should marry her. But he said nothing, and before he knew it the princess was gone.

The next morning he started out again, and as he passed through a thick wood he found a crane struggling in a bush of thorns. It was much wounded and seemed exhausted. Florian, who was kind, released the bird, not without suffering many scratches himself. Then, to his great astonishment, the crane, set free, turned and spoke.

"Youth," it said, "I know your search, and to reward your humanity I will, if you wish, find the stolen prince for you."

Florian thought of the princess and her wonderful blue eyes.

"No," he answered roughly, "I do not wish to find the prince." And he turned away.

That night he went again to the oak tree, and the princess was there.

"Have you found the prince?" she asked anxiously.

"No," answered Florian in a low voice, and he hung his head.

"Oh, find him, find him for my sake!" she cried imploringly, and then she hastened away.

The next day Florian set out again, and again he met the crane. "Do you now wish me to find the prince for you?" asked the bird. Florian thought of the princess and her radiant golden hair.

"No!" he cried fiercely and was gone.

That evening, under the oak tree, he met the princess again.

"Have you found the prince?" she asked. "There is only one day left of the four my father allotted."

Florian answered in a low voice, "I have not found him."

The princess' eyes filled with tears, but she said never a word and withdrew.

HE SAW THE FACE OF PRINCESS BEATRICE.

The next day Florian went to the wood where the crane dwelt. The bird flew to him.

"For the last time I ask you, Shall I find the prince for you?" it said. Florian thought of the beautiful soul of the princess, and he thought of the tears in her eyes, and he thought of the lonely old King Maurice, and his heart was filled with remorse.

"Yes, yes!" he cried. "Find the prince. Beatrice shall wed him, and I—but I am nothing. Find the prince, good crane."

"Very well," answered the bird. "When you get to the oak tree the prince will be there."

So Florian hurried back to the oak tree, but no one was there. "I must wait for the prince," he sighed. He sat down on the ground and lifted his hands to his breast. They touched the locket, and instantly it sprang open.

"True," he said sadly, "I have made a sacrifice, but what profits it?" Then he unfastened the chain and, lifting the locket, examined it. What was his amazement to find inside a ruby, red as a poppy, pure as a crystal. Then as he looked upon it he saw growing clear within the face of Princess Beatrice.

"The magic ruby!" he cried. "I myself am the missing Prince Eustace!"

Then the princess came swiftly through the trees.

"My prince!" she cried. "You are the Prince Eustace, and now I can tell the secret which has preyed upon me for so long. My fairy godmother, who loved me well, determined that I should wed no unworthy prince and, fearful that you should be spoiled by the luxuries of the court, carried you away to live unknown in a distant land. Now she has proved your worth and your great unselfishness, for she was the crane who spoke to you, and I, who knew her secret, was forbidden to speak, for she declared I should never wed you if you did not prove yourself noble and generous."

The prince's heart leaped with joy, but he trembled when he thought how nearly he had missed this happiness.

And so the prince and princess went quickly to the courts of their fathers, and the good King Maurice, rejoiced to find his son in the person of this manly, noble youth, celebrated their marriage with great rejoicings and splendor.—Washington Star.

Please.

If a baker baked a bun
And put a big plum in it
Who do you think would get it with ease—
The child that whined and pouted,
The child that grabbed and shouted?
Oh, no; not one of these;
Not these, it can't be doubted!
If a baker baked a bun
And put a big plum in it,
It seems to me that the child that said "Please"
Would get it in a minute.

"BIG 4" FLYER CRASHES INTO FREIGHT IN INDIANA

Twenty-five Said to be Dead, and Injured are Burned in Wreck

ENGINEER MISSED WARNING IN FOG

Smaller Wrecks Elsewhere, Result of Washouts Cause Large Numbers of Deaths and Injuries of Passengers and Crews

(Scripps-McRae Dispatch.)

FOWLER, Ind., Jan. 19.—Twenty-five were killed and forty injured in a wreck of fast Big Four passenger train No. 38 from Chicago to Cincinnati and a freight here early this morning.

Twenty-five of the injured will die.

The wreckage caught fire.

Several Burned to Death

A relief train was on the scene within an hour and later a train arrived with Dr. John Oliver, the Big Four surgeon, and other officials.

At least six were burned to death after they were pinned down by the wreckage.

The first attention of the rescuers was to the wounded. The first relief train was loaded with injured and started for Indianapolis at 8 o'clock.

Warning Not Noticed

The train was on the main line of the Big Four and was running at fifty miles an hour.

The dispatcher knew on account of the dense fog that the engineer was unable to see the signal semaphore directing him to stop, as the west bound freight had the right of way.

The dispatcher went out and waved his lantern and fired several shots with a revolver, but failed to attract the trainmen's attention.

The train rushed by a moment later and half a mile east of the station the crash occurred. Both firemen were killed, but the engineers escaped by jumping.

Twenty of the dead were cremated in the fire following immediately.

Only two passengers were saved from the smoker.

None was injured in the sleepers and no sleepers were burned as reported.

Official's Wife Aboard

Most of the casualties were in the combination car.

Mrs. Schaff, the vice president's wife, was on the train in her husband's private car.

Fifteen Cremated

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 19.—General Superintendent Dougherty says:

"A fog caused the wreck. Eight were killed outright and fifteen others cremated.

KANKAKEE, Ill., Jan. 19.—Seven survivors and injured in the Fowler wreck were brought here.

W. B. Harris of Indianapolis, died soon after arrival.

Wreck on Rock Island

It hit a train on a siding.

TALKS ON OPEN AND CLOSED DOOR

Last night, the last of the mid-week evening services in the Universalist church, was held. The services Sunday will be the last in the series. Dr. McGlauflin will preach at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. This afternoon at 3 o'clock he adressed an audience of ladies on the subject, "The New Womanhood."

The sermon last night was on the "Open and Closed Door."

"The open door, he said, "is the one spoken of in Revelation where John says: 'The door is open and no man can close it.' It is the door of Heaven. Heven is spoken of by John in this chapter as a place with faces, stone walls and there are three doors on each side which are never closed. This figure is only a bit of imagery to help us to grasp an idea but the point is clear, that the doors are always open. The three doors on this side are open and the three doors are always open.

"The other door and the one that is always closed is the door in the walls of selfishness and sin we put up around ourselves. If we are in sin the door is closed. We are the only ones who can open this door. Christ stands before it and knocks. We are to open and let Him in."

SOLONS QUARREL OVER APPOINTMENT BY MORRIS

IF LOCAL SENATOR'S COMMITTEE REPORTS FOR HIBBARD ROW'S SURE

(Special Tribune Dispatch.)

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 19.—The threat of the members of the senate that they will refuse to confirm the appointment of J. M. Hibbard of Stoughton should be selected as postmaster to the senate has caused a rumpus over the operation of the civil service law. The result is that several of the senators have charged that the governor is interested in the appointment of Hibbard, although the position is on the merit basis and the selection is to be made by the committee on legislative expenditures and employes of which Senator Thomas Morris of La Crosse is chairman.

Last night Senator Munson, private secretary to the governor, exposed the fact that other senators had circulated a petition favoring the appointment of Chris Paulus of Milwaukee.

Several days ago the civil service board certified three names to the committee for appointment. J. M. Hibbard, a faithful supporter of the governor, is first on the list and Chris Paulus, postmaster at the last session is third. The contest for the position has become spirited, and despite the provisions of the merit law, that political influence or pressure shall not be used in securing an appointment the charges of activity are common on both sides.

It is said here that should Senator Morris' committee report for the man favored by the governor there would be a general fight on the floor of the senate and the result predicted is that confirmation of Hibbard could not be secured. On the other hand it is well known that the governor feels under obligations to Hibbard for political services, and although Mr. Paulus has been in the service of the legislature before, the governor would rather see his choice confirmed inasmuch as Hibbard is first on the list.

Politicians declare here that even the members of the committee were afraid to select a man last week and for that reason put over the announcement of appointments until Tuesday. It was thought in the meanwhile the matter might be adjusted in some manner and that one of the rivals would withdraw.

The announcement that influence has been used by both senators and the governor to secure their respective endorsement of a man, has caused a general ill-feeling among some of the officials as to the manner the merit law is enforced. The general criticism is that despite the fact that the men secured are entirely satisfactory it is said that the civil service commissioners are not stringent enough in the enforcement of the provisions of the law. The case of Secretary of State James A. Frear in appointing L. B. Nagler as his chief clerk is another instance. The position is under the civil service law. Since the attorney general ruled that the vacancy must be filled by promotion the secretary has still retained Mr. Nagler in office and has appealed to the commission to place the position upon the exempt list. If this is done it will be a victory for Mr. Frear and a lesson to many of the other appointing officers of a method to purpose in securing their own choice of appointees.

The good road problem will come before the legislature again. There are a great many members who have already consulted with Secretary McCarthy, of the legislative reference library, upon the subject of good roads, and next week it is proposed to have the members of both houses meet and discuss a general plan. There is a resolution coming before the legislature providing for the calling of a constitutional convention to amend the constitution so that the state may grant aid to highways. The ultimate plan in view is to have a system in Wisconsin similar to the one in operation in Massachusetts. The proposed plan of the Bay state is to distribute road improvements according to the density of the population.

Copies of the full report of the insurance investigating committee are being prepared and will be sent to the members of the legislature next week. The report has never been fully placed before the public and the men interested in insurance can secure no adequate knowledge of the scope of the investigation by a reading of excerpts from the same.

One aggriever taxpaying assemblyman wants a law passed for the appointment of experts by the tax commission to assess properties, instead of allowing the work to be done by town and city assessors. Another measure will be a bill to establish a trade school at Milwaukee, and several measures to strengthen the scope of the pure food law will be introduced.

It doesn't require the eagle on American money to demonstrate that riches take onto themselves wings.

THOUGHT PARENTS WERE STARVING

Emil Gilmeister is Adjudged Insane and is Taken to Mendota

Unable to work because of frequent attacks of epileptic fits, and believing his parents would stave to death, Emil O. Gillmeister, 1433 Denton street, 25 years of age, was committed to the state hospital for the insane by Judge Brindley. Sheriff Burns left for Mendota, Wis., with Gillmeister this morning.

For the last several years the young man has been unable to work. Between ten and twelve attacks of fits have overtaken him each day. His inability to work and supply the family larder brought on insanity. It was necessary for his parents to watch him day and night. If not watched he would pitch from a chair onto his face on the floor. Once he fell against a hot stove and nearly burned to death.

With radical measures necessary to save him from bodily harm, the examination for his sanity was held. Dr. George Powell and Dr. H. G. Miller were appointed by Judge Brindley to conduct the test. Gillmeister was able to converse intelligently on all other subjects except his parents. Reference to them brought on the hallucination that they would starve to death.

Sheriff Burns reported the home in poor condition. When Gillmeister was taken into custody he had barely enough clothes to wear to accompany the sheriff to the court room. The scanty furnishings also showed the expense to the family of watching the young man. It is feared that Gillmeister's sister also is suffering from imbecility.

DESERTED BY HIS WIFE; A WANDERER

Jacob Sieg, vagrant, still defiant and thought to be insane was committed to the county jail for a term of thirty days by Judge Brindley this morning after being found guilty of vagrancy. Sieg will be examined to his sanity upon release.

Although he has lived in the United States for over thirty years, the prisoner was unable to speak English. An interpreter was needed to conduct the trial. Sieg said his wife and children deserted him twenty years ago and that he has been a homeless wanderer ever since. He is 59 years old and will observe his birthday in the county jail on Jan. 29.

Marshal Gus Anderson of Onalaska was the only witness for the state to testify. Sieg refused to leave the nearby town when ordered to Thursday and was arrested by Sheriff Burns, after terrifying the residents of Onalaska.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 19.—Mitchell in a speech this morning said the convention must adopt either his report or that of Vice President, and that it could not adopt both as they opposed each other in methods of settling differences.

HAULED COAL ON SLED THRU SNOW

Details of the effects of the coal famine in the west are contained in a humorous letter received from Misses Abbie Brayton, Olga Miller and another former La Crosse high school teacher who live in a flat in Seattle.

Owing to the hills covered with ice, it was impossible for the coal dealers to deliver coal, as sharply shod horses were like barefooted babes on the icy hills. The young ladies awoke one cold morning without fuel. They were forced to take a sled borrowed from a boy, for a distance of six blocks to a coal dealer's, where they secured and dragged home through the ten inches of snow a single sack of coal. With the assistance of several pedestrians they succeeded in getting the coal home, and hired a boy to bring five more sledloads, making about half a ton. Five horses were killed by falling on the ice the day the letter was written.

Some people can't tell a good story when they hear it.

Chicago Secretary Makes Address

SECOND DAY OF Y MEETING

Banquet Last Night Proves Most Entertaining of Many Features

How to bring the boy into the ranks of the Young Men's Christian association, make the institution attractive to him, and furnish a field for enlistment, was discussed in an able paper by Prof. Walter M. Wood, secretary of the Chicago, Ill., Y. M. C. A. at the second day of the state convention in the First Congregational church, Seventh and Main streets, this morning.

The address of Mr. Wood was the principal feature of the morning session, the entire attention of the large audience of delegates and visitors being rivetted to the address.

"The characteristics of the boy are widely different from those of the man," said Mr. Wood in part. The administration of the wants of the youngsters should be closely scheduled, definite in manner and form.

"What the boy needs is not close policing, but leadership, some one to guide him and show the right path in life. This should be based on friendship, for the friends will take an interest in each other and work in the mutual advantage of each.

'The boy desires to be physically active, taking a part in indoor and outdoor sports. Let him be busy physically and he will be happy. He also likes to collect and exhibit things. How many boys are there who have not had a collection of stamps or some kind of collection?

"Then the boy likes to go somewhere, excursions or picnics into the woods. They worship heroes, the leader of the victorious football team or captain of this team or that. Chums is symbolic of boys' life. Each bay has a companion, dear to him. Reach one and you touch two.

"Count the boys in. Let them know they are noticed. Don't say 'go away' but let the boy take a part in the various forms of Y. M. C. A. life. These make him happy and contented, a valuable asset to the association."

Sloan Opens Session

Previous to the address of Prof. Wood, William Sloan, secretary, Ashland, Wis., conducted the devotional service. Dr. W. B. Riley held the bible hour, an exceptionally strong and impressive service, taking for his topic, "Three Church Members." The hour was one of the best spent of the convention and did much good. Dr. Riley thoroughly impressed the delegates.

"Giving Is Service," was the subject taken by C. B. Willis, secretary, Milwaukee, Wis. The solicitation of aid for the association, and also the giving of funds were described by the speaker and the general results accruing noted. Mr. Willis is one of the most widely known of Y. M. C. A. workers in the state, and coming from the largest badger city was able to give an interesting and educational discussion.

A God-Given Medicine

REV. JOHN C. OREBAUGH.

Rev. John C. Orebaugh, a prominent clergyman and temperance advocate, says that DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY is a God-Given Medicine.

Thousands of temperance advocates and clergymen throughout the country agree with Dr. Orebaugh, and have the courage of their convictions, to recommend DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY as the greatest tonic stimulant and body-builder known to science.

"I have suffered from irregular appetite, diarrhoea, then constipation, abnormal temperature, often below normal; at times the memory is dull and I feel stupid. I have tried many treatments with no beneficial results. Pardon me to furthermore say that I have always been opposed to whiskey as a beverage, but have always believed that PURE whiskey used as a medicine was a God-Given one. I NEVER found PURE until I got "DUFFY'S." The best I could get seemed to increase my trouble and would burn in my stomach, but I find nothing disagreeable with DUFFY'S. It has done me a vast good and I trust others may use it through my recommendation."
—(Rev.) JOHN C. OREBAUGH, Anderson, Ind., Oct., 2, 1906.

Coronation Braid.

A group of women around a shop window were admiring a table centerpiece of great beauty. They pronounced it a most perfect specimen of laid work when one discovered that it was made with coronation braid in the pattern of loose sprays of wheat ears tied with a ribbon, a loop of the braid forming each kernel, with long stitches taken at the point. The ribbon was outlined with the braid couched long. The long space between the rows of braid was filled with cross stitch set closely together, as in shallow work. The whole could be done rapidly, but was as satisfactory as if days had been spent in setting stitches closely together. This braid can be adapted to other flower forms and leaves in an effective manner. The use of it is a legitimate way of shirking, which the most conscientious needle worker would approve.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Bloomer Trousers.

For the mothers who do their own sewing here is a method of making the bloomer trousers for small boys. One does not like the idea of an elastic in the bottom of the leg, as in order to hold it in place securely it must necessarily be tight enough to interfere with the circulation and to be very uncomfortable, especially in hot weather. Instead, finish the bottom with a band, comfortably loose, and in each seam sew a tape, in the other end of which make a buttonhole. The tapes are made the proper length so when those at the outside leg seams are buttoned to the side buttons of the waist and the others buttoned to the center front button the trousers are held securely in place, with no danger of slipping down, and the little man is comfortable.

FOR THE CROUP.

A Simple Remedy That Is Said to Be Very Effective.

When a doctor cannot be secured promptly in an emergency it is necessary to have a good remedy always on hand when children are inclined to be croupy.

A mother who will provide herself with half a pint of raw linseed oil can fight the worst case of croup she may meet with. It is said to be an unfailing remedy, and for quick results it beats anything else which can be given for that dread disease.

Half a teaspoonful is a dose unless the child is choking very badly. Then give a teaspoonful.

It acts two ways. In the first stage of croup, where there is not much mucus, it is loosened and carried off through the bowels.

In the second stage it causes vomiting; but, unlike ipecac, it leaves no soreness of the throat as an after difficulty.

It is rarely necessary to give more than one dose, when the child will get relief and go to sleep again.

This simple remedy is one that is within the reach of every mother and one that can be kept in the house at all times, and while it is in the house the dread membranous croup need cause no terrors.—Boston Traveler.

AMERICAN OFFICERS OF HIGH RANK AND OTHERS ENDORSE PE-RU-NA.

Prominent People Recommend the Remedy Pe-ru-na.

Dr. Hartman's World Renowned Catarrh Medicine.

A Remedy for the Grip.

Gen. W. H. Parsons, 925 H St., N. W., Washington, D. C., writes as follows:

"Upon the recommendation of personal friends and many strong testimonials to the efficacy of Peruna in the treatment of the numerous symptoms of the grip with which I have been affected for four months past, I have been induced to undergo a treatment of this justly celebrated formula.

"I feel a decided change for the better by its use for one week only, especially in toning up the stomach, and a consequent decided effect upon my appetite.

"I therefore feel much encouraged that I am on the road to complete restoration.

"My numerous friends in Texas, where I have had the honor to command a brigade of her veteran cavalry in a four-year war, may accept this voluntary testimonial to the merit of Peruna from a sense of obligation for its wonderful efficacy."

Pe-ru-na a Good Tonic.

Gen. M. C. Butler, of South Carolina, writes from Washington, D. C., as follows:

"I can recommend Peruna for dyspepsia and stomach trouble.

"I have been using your medicine for a short period and I feel very much relieved.

"It is indeed a wonderful medicine, and besides a good tonic."

Colds in the Head and Throat.

Chas. W. Bowman, 1st Lieut. and Adjt. 4th M. S. M. Cav. Vols., writes from Lanham, Md., as follows:

"Though somewhat averse to patent medicines, and still more averse to becoming a professional affidavit man, it seems only a plain duty in the present instance to add my experience to the columns already written concerning the curative powers of Peruna.

"I have been particularly benefited by its use for colds in the head and throat.

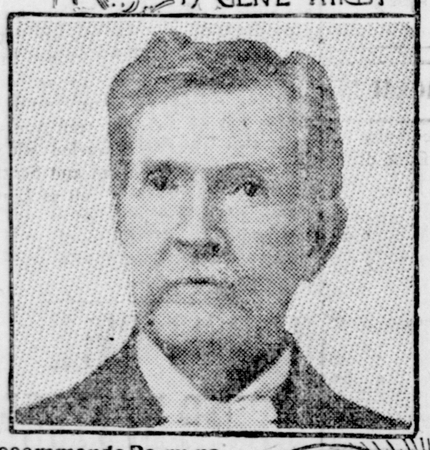

"I have been able to fully cure myself of a most severe attack in forty-eight hours by its use according to directions.

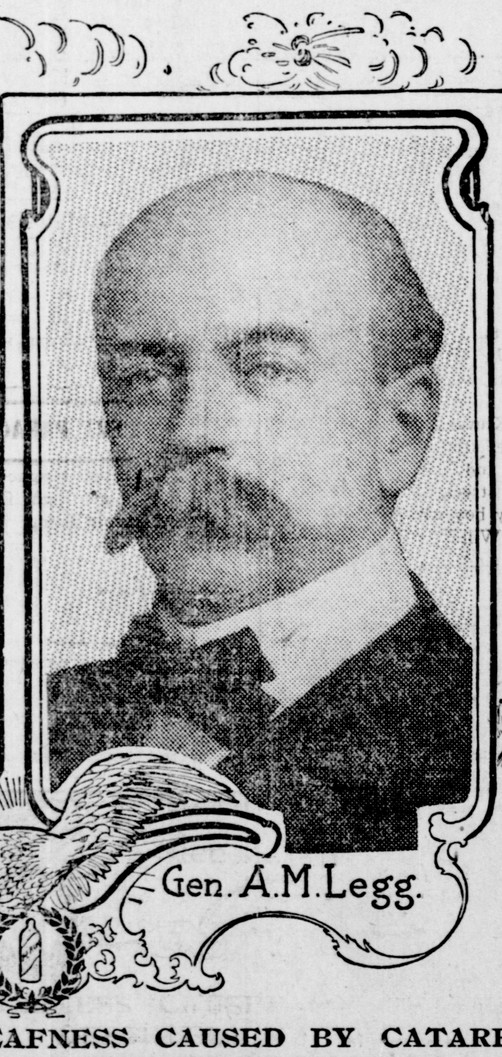

"I use it as a preventive whenever threatened with an attack.

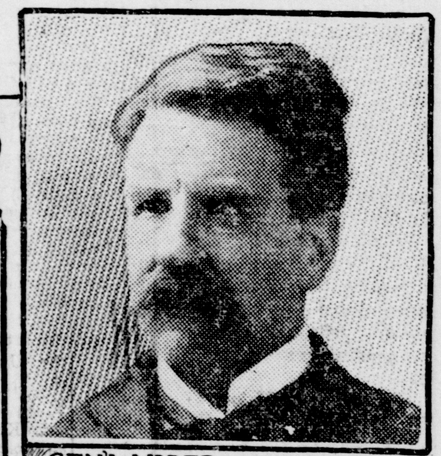

"Members of my family also use it for like ailments.

"We are recommending it to our friends."

Recommends Pe-ru-na to the Afflicted.

Brig. Gen. D. T. Kirby, Washington, D. C., writes concerning Peruna, as follows:

"Friends of mine having used your Peruna catarrh cure with good results, I am impressed with its curative qualities, and can recommend it to those who are afflicted."

An Invigorating Tonic

Rear-Admiral Hichborn, U. S. Navy, Washington, D. C., writes:

"After the use of Peruna for a short period, I can now cheerfully recommend your valuable remedy to any one who is in need of an invigorating tonic."

For Catarrh of the Stomach.

Gen. W. W. Duffield, Washington, D. C., writes:

"I have used Peruna in my family and have found it a valuable medicine and take pleasure in recommending it to all who suffer from catarrh of the stomach or who require a tonic of prompt efficacy."

Used Pe-ru-na—Satisfied As to Its Merits —Recommends It to All Sufferers.

Gen. S. S. Yoder, 203 Md. Ave., N. E., Washington, D. C., writes:

"I desire to say that I have found Peruna to be a wonderful remedy. I only used it for a short time and am thoroughly satisfied as to its merits. I shall gladly recommend it to all sufferers."

DEAFNESS CAUSED BY CATARRH— RELIEVED BY PE-RU-NA.

Gen. A. M. Legg, writes from the Savings Bank Building, Washington, D. C., as follows:

"I take pleasure in endorsing the many recommendations I have heard and read of Peruna, because of having had knowledge of the truth of so many of them.

"We always tell our sick and ailing friends of the remedies that we have learned, from experience, were good for us when ailing in the same way, and we do it as a duty we feel that we owe them.

"Why is it any the less our duty to advise all the people we can when we know of a good and comparatively inexpensive remedy that makes many cures, and benefits in almost all cases?

"My own little personal experience of being relieved of deafness, caused by a siege of catarrh, warrants me in advising all the afflicted to just try Peruna."

For Kidney Trouble, Coughs, Colds and Catarrh.

Gen. A. T. Hawley, 1336 25th St., N. W., Washington, D. C., writes:

"I have used Peruna and find it very beneficial for kidney trouble, and especially good for coughs, colds and catarrhal trouble."

Convinced of Pe-ru-na's Merit.

Brig. Gen. J. Floyd King, Washington, D. C., writes:

"I unhesitatingly state that I am convinced Peruna is a medicine which will effect all that is claimed for its use."

Those desirous of obtaining special directions with regard to the use of Peruna should write to Dr. S. B. Hartman, President of the Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

When Other Remedies Failed Pe-ru-na Proved Efficacious.

Hon. Geo. W. Honey, National Chaplain U. V. U., Ex-Chaplain 4th Wisconsin Cavalry, Ex-Treas. State of Wisconsin and Ex-Q. Master General State of Texas, G. A. R., writes from 1700 First street, N. E., Washington, D. C., as follows:

"I cannot too highly recommend your preparation for the relief of catarrhal troubles in their various forms.

"Some members of my own family have used it with most gratifying results.

"When other remedies failed, Peruna proved most efficacious and I cheerfully certify to its curative excellence."

Pe-ru-na, a Standard Treatment For Catarrhal Diseases.

Mr. John C. Nelson, Dayton, Tenn., geologist and mining engineer, while a Captain in the Federal Army during the Civil War, contracted a case of rheumatism. This malady was constant and persistent, inducing the development of other ailments, which also became chronic. After taking a course of Peruna, Capt. Nelson writes:

"Having been painfully afflicted with chronic rheumatism and the adjunctive complications for many years, and after having received many general and special treatments with only temporary relief, I read your scientific treatise on catarrhal diseases.

"At my request you prescribed a special course of the Peruna remedies, which I closely followed, and am happy to report that my rheumatism and complicated ailments are subdued, and I feel young again at the age of 69 years.

"Reason will accept your classification of catarrhal diseases as scientific and true, and the Peruna remedies as a standard treatment for them. I thank you heartily for your skilled and logical advice."

Enjoys Renewed Health and Strength.

James J. Osborn, 623 Wahsatch Ave., Colorado Springs, Colo., has filled all the positions in Knight Templars Masonic Order, was a Mason since 1866, Judge of County Court, Clinton, Mo., and also County Collector of Clinton. He writes:

"A sluggish liver which I had been troubled with for two years made life miserable and I was unable to attend to my business half the time. I lacked energy, had headache most of the time, and my food distressed me and did not seem to do me a particle of good.

"Reading of the many cures performed by Peruna, I decided to try a bottle. Before I had taken many doses I felt better.

"I took it as directed for two months when I was a well man."

DIES ON LAND CLAIM

WILLISTON, N. D., Jan. 19.—Albert Barry, a homesteader living on a claim thirteen miles northwest of Williston, was found dead in his shack. It was first reported that he had frozen to death, but when a party from here went after him plenty of provisions and fuel were found.

Barry was found in bed with his clothing on, even to a cap. It is thought that he was sick and, being there alone, lay down on the bed and died. His closest neighbor was two miles away. Being so far out of town and with the snow so deep, there was no one passing to render assistance. The coroner says the man had been dead two days before found.

Barry was 23 years old.

COSTLY PRESSURE.
Heart and Nerves Fail on Coffee

A resident of a great western state puts the case regarding stimulants with a comprehensive brevity that is admirable. He says:

"I am 56 years old and have had considerable experience with stimulants. They are all alike—a mortgage on reserved energy at ruinous interest. As the whip stimulates but does not strengthen the horse, so do stimulants act upon the human system. Feeling this way, I gave up coffee and all other stimulants and began the use of Postum Food coffee some months ago. The beneficial results have been apparent from the first. The rheumatism that I used to suffer from has left me, I sleep sounder, my nerves are steadier and my brain clearer. And I bear testimony also to the food value of Postum—something that is lacking in coffee." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. There's a reason. Read "The Road to Wellville," the quaint little book in pkgs.

KEIZER BARN IS TOTALLY BURNED

About 9:30 last evening ocmpany No. 4 responded to an alarm of fire at the corner of Gohres and George streets where the large barn, formerly used for livery business by Martin Keizer, had caught fire.

The fire originated by the explosion of a kerosene lamp which had been left in the barn a moment before the fire was discovered. The flames spread rapidly, illumined the sky, and soon gained considerable headway so that the firemen had a hard fight. After about two hours' work, including pitching hay with lantern light, they succeeded in quenching the last spark. All the hay in the loft was consumed and an adjoining shed was also burned.

The damage will amount to about $500.

FIREMEN TAKE EXAMINATIONS FOR PROMOTION

Ten firemen on the Milwaukee road have been called to take the examinations for the position of engineers. Charles Butch of Rose street is the only one from the La Crosse division. The others are from Portage. This is not taken as a sign of the expected increase of business as it is understood that there is a ruling which requires all firemen who have been on the road for three years, to take the examination for the position of engineer.

VICINITY NEWS

DAKOTA, Minn., Jan. 19.—Rev. Kelly is doing his best to turn Dakota upside down and right side up for righteous living and brotherhood, in his revival services which are creating great and increasing interest.

The congregations are large, well sustained and increasing, interest is keen and convictions are deepening. Rev. Kelly is a successful, earnest evangelist of over ten years experience, and has traveled widely, having been in Ireland and Scotland and North Dakota as well as London. He will preach on Sunday afternoon at the church at 3 o'clock on "Why I Am a Christian, and Why I Preach."

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dickson, Mr. C. Van Schapen, of Dresbach, and Mr. Kappauf of La Crescent, attended Rev. Kelly's service at Dakota on Thursday night and heard his original sermon on "The Man in the Casket. Who Was It?" There was a large congregation and great interest.

The Ladies' Aid of Dakota had a splendid meeting on Wednesday at the residence of Mrs. Wilson, at which the pastor was present. The guild met the day following and had a good time.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Shippee received a visit on Thursday from Mr. Kappauf and their mutual pastor of La Crescent.

Wood hauling is the program of the day for this locality.

Residents of Dakota and also of La Crescent should invest in one of the lamps like those outside the residence of Mr. Workman at Dakota. It would improve the town in a needed way, be much appreciated by all, and the small cost is well worth it.

Mrs. Nutting has been sorely missed in church circles. Probably her health does not proceed as fast as her many friends wish.

DRESBACH, Minn., Jan. 19.—Rev. Kelly preaches in the M. E. church next Sunday night at 7:45 on "Christ and the Serpent."

Rev. Kelly and Mr. Kappauf of La Crescent visited in Dresbach on Thursday.

LA CRESCENT, Minn., Jan. 19.—Rev. Kelly had an accident on Tuesday while driving to Dresbach. Near the Umberger farm, the old and skiddish horse he drives became scared at a piece of timber on the road, and in the twinkling of an eye, in spite of Rev. Kelly's efforts to the contrary, put the buggy and driver down the steep bank, turning both upside down. Two men working near by came to see if Rev. Kelly was killed but found him safe and sound though fixed in the buggy, and gave their generous help. Rev. Kelly's horse is somewhat dangerous and hates to see anything on the road besides snow.

Services will be held at the M. E. church tonight at 7:30, with a sermon on "Christ and the Serpent," and on Sunday morning on "The Man in the Casket. Who is It?"

Rev. Bailey writes his friend the M. E. pastor of the visit to La Crescent of Miss Hendrix, W. C. T. U. lecturer, of Minneapolis, on Sunday night, January 20, in the Presbyterian church. Rev. Kelly has not yet decided to close his service for that night.

All is going progressively at the Smith Grubber company.

There was no truth in the printed report sent to one of the residents of La Crescent that Rev. Higgs the singing evangelist had gone into business in Indiana. Rev. Higgs and Rev. Kelly are intimate friends and the former told the pastor he had had a remunerative offer but was going to stick to his preaching, and would have helped his friend at Dakota if his wife's sickness and serious condition had not prevented. Rev. Kelly needs a singer to help him.

J. D. Taylor is attending the Gypsy Smith campaign in Chicago, where it is hoped he will learn from that wise some, sweet and loving soul of "the gentle art of mercy and the fine art of love." Rev. Kelly has heard the gypsy lots of times and thinks a lot of him. Rev. Kelly's home in England is about three miles from where Gypsy Smith was born and where as a boy he lived and played by his father's tent.

Mr. John Turnbull had an accident on Saturday when he fell over slippery ice as he was carrying honey to the store. When he was absent from his place on Sunday morning all knew something had happened to him.

Before long, a good light will be erected outside the M. E. parsonage at La Crescent, after the style of Dakota lighting, to furnish illumination to passers at the dark corner.

THE SLAUGHTER OF HUMANITY

Today's dispatches bring the terrible news of another great railroad disaster.

" * * * the dispatcher tried to signal the engineer, but he failed to notice the signals 'on account of the dense fog,'" and so two score lives have gone out and scores are crippled for life.

Meanwhile congress delays needed legislation for public protection, by berating President Roosevelt for performing his duty in discharging a lot of drunken and lawbreaking negro troops.

Electric signals could not be overlooked in a fog.

It would cost the railroads some millions to thus protect human life.

The railroads no doubt think more of the millions of dollars than they do of human life, but our legislators, drowsy to any legislation which will cost the railroads money, should wake to one of the greatest needs of the country.

Thousands of lives have been lost in recent years through the lax methods and bungling officials.

It is time the verbose senators subside on the negro troop affair and get down to business.

AN OFFICIAL AND A RECORD

A public official, who escapes criticism, is in nine cases out of ten incompetent, indolent, or both.

It is the man who does things who stirs up antagonism, says the St. Paul News. The nature of the criticism is the test which shows whether his official activity has been along right or wrong lines.

The Daily News desires to apply this test to Dr. Justus Ohage, who is St. Paul's health commissioner, and who has never been accused of neglecting to keep things going in his department.

Has he been working in the interests of the people or not?

Who has criticized him? There is the thing that tells.

St. Paul has numerous ward organizations formed to beautify, sanitate and improve various sections of the city. The work of these organizations is along general lines, the same as that of Dr. Ohage. Have any of these organizations complained? Not one.

Then there are the organizations of wage earners, ward clubs, women's clubs and various minor organizations formed to promote civic interest and progress. Have any of these found fault with Dr. Ohage's virile activity?

Not at all.

If you will review the opposition which Dr. Ohage has aroused in his entire official life you will find back of it some special interest menaced by a rigid application of the laws of comfort or health.

In a word, this one test which alone has any value shows that Dr. Ohage's friends are the mass of the people in whose interests he has exerted the force of his militant energy.

On the other side is arrayed special privilege, striving in every possible way to keep what it has and get what is hasn't.

Regarding the reappointment of such a man as long as he can be induced to take office there should be no question.

Roland Blackleg Gelatt can't seem to realize his friend "Baldie" has really got what he had coming.

Perhaps Jim Hill and Harriman will blame the wrecks onto the rate commissions.

Anyway there's never any wrecks on the Green Bay more serious than wrecked patience.

When a man gets the idea he's too big for his job, he's usually right about it.

Well, our beautiful city is slushy these days.

Nice weather to peruse the Symptom Blank.

BOY

the mornig session.

This Afternoon

With "Six Essentials in Soul Winning," Dr. Riley opened the afternoon session with a bible hour, which was followed by the business session. Here the general condition of the Y. M. C. A. in Wisconsin was noted and the appointment of an assistant state secretary decided on. George F. Fisher, M. D., secretary of the international committee, closed the session of the whole with the address "The Whole Man for the Service."

Neil McMillan Jr., conducted the conference for colege men beginning the meeting at 3:30 o'clock. Many of the college students and also those attending high schools listened to the leges and universities of the country.

Fred B. Smith, a traveler and noted as a speaker to men, will conduct the service tonight with an address in the church, "Association World-wide Movement." Personal experience in traveling the world furnish the fund talk of the young New York member on the work being done in the col- of information for the address.

Urge New Building

The keynote to the work of securing funds to construct a new building in La Crosse was sounded last night at the annual banquet of the association in Christ Episcopal church, Ninth and Main streets. The support of every delegate was pledged to aid La Crosse all in their power to make the proposition a success.

John M. Holley Sr., yesterday elected president of the convention, was chosen toastmaster at the banquet. He introduced the speakers, in many cases men of prominence in Y. M. C. A. work in the United States.

The menu follows:

Bouillon Salted Wafers
Cabbage Salad Veal Loaf
Cold Ham Mashed Potatoes
Beans Brown Gravy
Coffee Apple Jelly Brick Ice Cream
Assorted Cake

James Kerr and chorus, under his direction, rendered several selections, all enjoying the music. Christ Nelson, Conrad Nelson and Ike Goodman rendered several selections on the violin.

One of the notable features was the playing of the Manitowoc Y. M. C. A. boy's orchestra of fourteen pieces which rendered several selections during the banquet. The music was of a high quality and elicited repeated applause.

The Speakers

Neil McMillan, New York, was the first speaker. He spoke in a happy vein and urged the building of the new structure in La Crosse.

Walter M. Wood, secretary of the Chicago Y. M. C. A., followed. He described the work of the institution and the good that one may derive from being a member. The address of the speaker was a strong plea for united Y. M. C. A. work.

Fred B. Smith, a noted evangelist, was the last speaker. The work of the association also formed the theme of this address. A short story of a trip abroad served to enlighten the audience on the foreign work being done by the Y. M. C. A. J. W. Stafford, secretary of the local institution, received a compliment from the speaker for his work here.

"Blest Be the Tie that Binds," was sung by C. B. Willis, secretary of the Milwaukee Y. M. C. A. This closed the banquet.

Sam T. Kidder of Ripon, son of the Rev. Samuel T. Kidder, is in the city attending the state convention of the Young Men's Christian association.

The new Elk club was visited by a large number of ladies yesterday and last evening, it being the weekly ladies' day.

Closes Sunday Night

With eight different services, Sunday will see the close of the big convention. The day will be devoted to evangelical work, the services being held about the city. It is expected that a world of good will be accomplished and several placed upon a more solid footing toward leading purer lives.

Only one service will be held during the morning. This will be at the First Methodist church, C. B. Willis, presiding at the fellowship meeting at 9:30 o'clock.

The delegates will attend the regular church services, choosing the denomination they desire. In some of the churches special reference to the convention and the guests of La Crosse will be made.

In the afternoon the big men's mass meeting will be held at the La Crosse theater at 3 o'clock. Fred B. Smith, New York City, renowned throughout the United States as an evangelist and ranked as the equal, if not the better of the Rev. W. E. Biederwolf, will preside at the meeting. The state quartet will sing.

Three Big Meetings

At the same time other meetings will be held. George F. Fisher, M. D., New York City, will preside at the First Baptist church, Sixth street between Main and King streets. At the North Presbyterian church, Avon and Logan streets, Neil Campbell, Wausau, Wis., will have charge, and at the First Presbyterian church Sixth and King streets, the La Crosse Young Women's Christian association, will hold a meeting for women.

In the evening, at 6:30 o'clock, M. T. Kennedy, a student at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis., will conduct services in the First Congregational church, Seventh and Main streets at a union people's gathering.

Peter Hanson, Beloit, Wis., will hold services in the Caledonia street Methodist Episcopal church, Caledonia street, between Wall and Windsor streets. He will be assisted by William Sloan, Ashland, Wis.

At the First Congregational church, C. B. Willis, Milwaukee, Wis., and State Senator J. M. Whitehead, Janesville, Wis., will be in charge. Neil McMillan, New York City, will deliver an address, "Wisconsin's Opportunity to Serve the Young Man in Foreign Lands."

The farewell service will be held in the First Congregational church.
